ONE CENT

RESULTS BEING TABULATED BY BOARD OF DISTRICT FIVE

Hope to be Able to Announce Results of Examination Tomorrow

MANY CLAIMING EXEMPTION

Three of the exemption boards of Washington county today engaged in the work of tabulating the results of the physical examination which they have just concluded. These boards are No. 1, at Washington, No. 3 at Houston and No. 5 at Donora.

The district No. 5 board at Donora on Monday examined 128 men out of the 150 summoned, who constituted the last lot of men called of the 200 per cent of the quota. Fifty of the 123 asked to be excused from service. The board today tabulated the results of the tests and will make public its report tomorrow, or not later than Thursday. In the Fifth district 876 men were summoned for examination, out of whom the quota of 437 is expected to be obtained. If the tabulated results should show that the number desired has not been secured, an additional call will at once be issued for double the number of men required. The work of examination will be continued until the full quota of the district has been obtained.

At Ellsworth on Monday the Board examined 67 men, of whom 16 were rejected on account of physical unfitness. Forty-seven sought exemption. Of these 33 were aliens and one was an enemy alien (German). Today the board is examining 125 additional men and on Wednesday will have as many more.

In district No. 2 at McDonald, officials say the Austrians are showing surprising loyalty, being willing to serve in the draft army, while the Italians are not showing the same willingness.

The large number of men claiming exemption in the various districts of the county will make the tasks of the local boards quite a heavy one, and it may require more than one day to determine who should go and who should be exempt.

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE CONSERVE THE WATER SUPPLY

Owing to boiler trouble the Tri-Cities Water company is experiencing considerable difficulty in maintaining the water supply. We urge upon all our consumers to be as saving as possible with the water until we get in better shape, which we hope will be within the next few days. Request has been made to the borough to use no water for street purposes until the situation is relieved. All mills and other industries are asked to give this grave situation the widest cooperation.

Order to This Effect Issued on Saturday by the Pennsylvania

LOCAL LOADERS ARE HALTED

Country coal mine shippers, who have been doing quite a profitable business for the past year, on the Pennsylvania Railroad lines, are at present up against a hard proposition. In fact, they are, temporarily, at least, out of business, and pending a modification of a recent order issued by the Pennsylvania, will only be able to conduct their business under very discouraging conditions.

On Saturday last an order was issued to all train masters of the Monongahela Division, by Superintendent A. G. Mitchell, that, becoming effective at once, only G. S. type of gondola and box cars would be assigned to the country coal mine shipper. This order was received at the Charleroi station on Monday, and local shippers were at once notified of its existence.

The meaning of the order is, that hereafter, unless modified, no self-cleaning cars will be placed for team loaders, the order specifying G S gondolas and box cars. Of the G S type, which is a steel car, there are thousands in use in the United States but they are so widely scattered that it is hard to tell when one of them would be available.

Of course, however, plenty of them can be placed according to Pennsylvania Railroad officials, varying in capacity from 60,000 to 100,000 pounds. The loading of box cars, however, would involve additional expense, both to the loader and buyer, and would make it somewhat difficult to dispose of coal loaded in this manner.

The same order has gone into effect on other lines, and according to the higher up officials, was issued because of the increasing demand of coke works and blast furnaces for the self-cleaning hopper type of cars. It is claimed that it is impossible to meet local demands for these cars and at the same time keep the coke works and the blast furnaces supplied.

The result of this order is, that practically all of the small shippers, who have been loading in the Charleroi yards are for the time being out of business. No cars were placed this morning, and consequently there was no place to unload the wagoes, which came in loaded with coal. It may be that orders to place the specified type of gondolas or box cars will arrive today, but until such orders are received the local shippers who handle the output of the country mines will have to wait until other arrangements are made.

A number of these local shippers said that under the ruling the Public Service Commission it was incumbent on the railroad companies to furnish them with cars suitable for their business; to refuse to do so was discrimination, and from the tone of the statements made, it is likely the State Commission will again have a series of hearings at Harrisburg in order to settle the differences between the railroads and the small shippers.

KNIT GOODS ARE NEEDED AT ONCE

Red Cross to Begin Nationwide Campaign for These Articles

ALL MAY HELP TO PREPARE

A knitting campaign, in which the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross will be a factor, is to be started at once in the United States, in which every woman who can knit, or who is willing to learn, will be enlisted.

The American Red Cross has bought $3,800,000 of yarn and this enormous order will be apportioned among the Chapters of the country. The yarn will be given to all women who volunteer to work.

The need for this great campaign is the appeal from France for millions of sweaters, wristlets, knitted helmets, mittens and socks. Preparations are being made in France and Belgium for another severe winter's fighting. The hope of the Allies is to so equip the men that they will be as comfortable as possible in the cold weather. Thousands of these knitted sets will be worn by American soldiers.

The Charleroi Chapter has already made a number of appeals to the women of Charleroi to enlist in this work. The need for these knitted goods is urgent. Every day American soldiers are being sent to France, and when the cold weather sets in there will be thousands of men from this country in training camps not only in France, but in England as well. The government gives the men warm clothing, but these knitted goods are an added comfort which the men will highly appreciate when the chilling and zero weather of northern France is experienced.

The time to prepare these goods is right now. Charleroi Chapter is anxious to provide its quota. It can be done if there is a generous response to this appeal, which is nationwide in scope, and which includes every woman. By applying to the sewing rooms at the federal building, the officers in charge of the work of the Chapter will be pleased to give any further information desired.

HIS POST OF HONOR

The War Department is issuing a home-reading course for citizen-soldiers, which is expected to be practical help to the men selected for service in the National Army in getting started in the right way. The first of these helps was issued Monday, and it calls attention to the post of honor of the soldier. It says:

"You are called to serve as a soldier on the National Army, because that is one of your obligations as a citizen of the United States. The citizens of a republic must always be ready in the hour of need to leave their own homes and take up arms in the defense of their rights and principles. Otherwise the Republic could not long continue to exist. The men who now enter military service deserve the gratitude and respect of their fellow citizens."

"You are doubtless making a heavy sacrifice in order to perform this duty to your country. Hundreds of thousands of other young men and their families are face to face with similar sacrifices. All our citizens will sooner or later be called upon, each to bear his or her share of the burden. Men and women, rich and poor, all alike must do whatever is necessary and must give up whatever is necessary. For no personal interests or feelings can be permitted to stand in the way at a time when the safety and honor of the country are at stake."

"As a citizen soldier you are chosen for a post of special distinction. America is justly proud of the soldiers of the past who have won for us the rights today denied and put in serious danger by the high-handed attacks of the German Government. America will be no less proud of you, as you fight to uphold those rights."

"Your personal responsibility is great. As warfare is today conducted, the individual soldier counts for more than ever before. Your own skill and bravery, no matter how humble your rank, may easily be important factors in deciding whether an engagement is to be won or lost. You can not depend upon anyone else to carry this personal responsibility for you; you must depend upon yourself."

YOUTH'S IGNORANCE OF AGE

A vaudeville sketch presented last season by a young actor, who was also its author, depicted a man of fifty with all the characteristics and infirmities of a man of eighty or more. To a youth thirty years is a very long period and it is but natural for him to imagine that he will be very old at fifty, but a young writer for the stage ought to modify such imagination by observation in the field of actual life. The same may be said of a young slacker who invents a story whereby to procure exemption from military service. One of these latter was brought to grief before the board of exemptions in New York because of his youthful ignorance of the actual characteristics of the average person in the neighborhood of sixty.

It appears that the young slacker managed to force tears into his eyes as he stood before the desk of Chairman Tuttle and claimed exemption on the ground that his aged mother was dependent on him and would starve if he went to war. "Bring her here to tell us so," directed Mr. Tuttle. "She is too old to come," objected the exemption claimer. "How old?" followed the embarrassing question. The slacker should have ventured eighty or thereabouts as the reasonable age of a person too old to walk or ride, but he was too young and unobservant to know that, so he hazarded 61 as the proper figure in the case of a really "aged" parent. This was his undoing, rendering him an object of suspicion at once and under a fire of questions he became uncertain as to whether he had a mother at all. He was ordered to withdraw his claim or produce the woman he had described—which was impossible.

The Kaiser protests that there was no gambling in schemes of conquest in his council chamber. True enough, for all the war lords thought it was a sure thing until their plans were badly dislocated by Belgian stubbornness and French pluck.

"Every student an athlete" is excellent in theory, especially in war time, but the Collegiate Athletic Association's proposed reform will encounter some difficulty in practice. Hitherto 99 per cent of college students have sat still and cheered while a relative handful of strong young men have been made stronger by sporting contests.

Mayor Thompson describes Chicago as "the sixth largest German city in the world," yet the other day it pulled off a parade of 9000 selective draft men supported by 4000 from the neighboring training camp at Fort Sheridan and the crowds packing the streets cheered mightily. Evidently Mayor Thompson lives in the heart of Chicago's "Little Germany."

"Resistance to draft" stories have no doubt been exaggerated by sensation hunters, but Provost Marshall General Crowder has done well to announce that drafted men who fail to report, thus failing to take advantage or discharge, will in due course automatically become soldiers, failure to show up then constituting desertion and calling for court martial. This important statement of fact is followed by the impressive reminder that "desertion in war time is a capital offense." The drafted man who is neglecting to report can hardly realize the risks he undertakes.

France is certainly not "bleeding to death" very fast if, as officially announced, she has 3,000,000 men under arms and is holding 356 miles of battle front while the English are holding 55 miles.

APPLE BUTTER

All who like apple butter stand up.

It is a favorite dish for young and old alike and the right constituency is the point in making it, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission of Washington, D. C., which is co-operating with this newspaper will give $5,000 in cash prizes for the best canned vegetables grown in war gardens.

The right proportion of apples and sweet or sterilized cider may be kept in mind. Take five gallons of cider and boil it down one half, skimming occasionally during boiling. Wash, pare, quarter and core apples and use in proportion of two parts apples, to one part boiled cider. Boil slowly for four to six hours, stirring often to prevent burning. When the butter is two-thirds done, add about a pound of brown sugar to the gallon and spice to taste. If the apples are a little over ripe, add lemon or vinegar to give acid taste. Apple butter should be stored in sterilized receptacles and therops sealed or covered with paraffin paper or cloth.

Another method of making apple butter is to make a smooth sauce of the apples before adding to the boiled cider and use in the same proportion as above. This method requires about three hours of cooking after the addition of the apples.

A third method requires no cider. Firm, tart apples are allowed to simmer slowly for a long time until of the right consistency. When nearly done a pound of brown sugar is added for each gallon and the butter is spiced to taste.

The Commission for the final big drive to save the food of the nation will award $5,000 in prizes to those who win awards at the war garden exhibitions that will be held through out the country. Charles Lathrop Pack, the president, and P. S. Eldale, secretary of the commission are now working out details and ask that all war gardens committees and those on charge of the exhibitions write to the commission at 210 Maryland building giving a brief outline of their plan of awards.

When Brodie Stuffed Mitchell.
Once when in England Steve Brodie, the famous bridge jumper, was in a party which included Charlie Mitchell, the prizefighter. Mitchell made some remarks derogatory to John L. Sullivan, to which Brodie rejoined with some sarcastic observations on the sporting skills of Mitchell displayed while in the ring with Sullivan. This angered the prizefighter, who crooked Brodie flat. As he stumbled to his feet Mitchell made another rush at him, but by then Brodie had a pistol in his hand and, thrusting it under his assailant's nose, remarked: "You think you're goin' to make a reputation of kickin' Steve Brodie, don't you? Well, you just hit me once and there'll be a lot in the papers about it, but you won't read it." That closed the incident.

British "Tommies" Pay Last Honors to Comrads Lost in Salonica Drive

Monument of Rough Hewn Limbs Fashioned as Cross Marks Last Resting Place of Dead

As the lines of the British moved forward in Salonica against the enemy, many of the "Tommies" saw battle for the last time. But they were not forgotten by their comrades. Here are two Britishers who have returned to honor the memory of the departed. They have made graves and erected a crude monument from the limbs of a tree fashioned as a cross. The monuments are ready to leave the scene for new fields of glory. The picture was taken by the official British photographer at the front.

"Nerv-Worth's the Best Medicine I Ever Used"

"Can Eat Anything Now Without Distress," Adds Jennie Ray

This entirely new contribution to the great mass of local and neighborhood Nerv-Worth statements has things to say that count.

"I was nearly crazy with a pain which extended from my shoulders to the top of my head and which had been going on for about five years. My stomach was very bad. I could hardly eat anything. I grew so weak I could hardly stand up. Could not sleep. I tried many remedies and doctor's prescriptions. None of them did me any good. A friend bought me a bottle of Nerv-Worth and it helped me wonderfully. I used four more and am, I believe, entirely well again. The pain in my head, neck and shoulders has all gone. My stomach is well and appetite good. Can eat anything without distress afterward. Can sleep well and have gained greatly in strength. Nerv-Worth is the best medicine I ever used and I can honestly recommend it to anyone who has suffered as I have."

This grateful endorser lives at 22 1-2 West Chestnut street, Washington, Pa.

NOW STATES SHE IS THE HAPPIEST MOTHER IN TOWN

Son's Restoration to Health Made Possible by Master Medicine

There is one mighty happy mother in Sunbury, Pa. She is Mrs. Nellie Neuer, of 925 Railroad avenue, and her happiness comes from the fact that her son, George W. Neuer, who is one of Sunbury's best known citizens, has been restored to health.

"My boy suffered for a long time from stomach trouble and a run-down system," said Mrs. Neuer. "He had indigestion and gas on the stomach. He used to bloat terribly, and nothing he ate seemed to agree with him. I used to cook him all kinds of tasty dishes, but he would leave them untouched."

"His nerves were bad, and he did not sleep well. He lost weight and frequently had to stay home from work. Then I heard about Taflac, the Master Medicine. I asked him to try it for me and the results are astonishing. Just yesterday he said to me, 'Mother, I'm improving every day.'"

"His stomach is again normal. His appetite is restored. He sleeps well and his nerves are quieted. Since this change for the better came over him I'm one of the happiest mothers in Sunbury."

WILL DEMONSTRATE CORN AND TOMATOES

At the coming lessons to be given tomorrow morning in the domestic science department of the high school Miss Pipes will demonstrate the canning of corn, as well as how to make tomato catsup. In addition there will be a talk on a well-balanced menu.

These lessons and demonstrations are growing in interest, and should be attended by a larger number of housewives. The canning season is here, and with tomatoes and corn coming into the market in increasing quantities every day, the need for instant action is apparent. Miss Pipes has been very successful in the local work and her efforts should be appreciated to the extent of having large audiences at every meeting. The session tomorrow morning will begin at the usual hour.

Gen. March Chief Artillery in France

One of the most important posts under Gen. Pershing in France is that to which Brig-Gen. Peyton March has just been appointed by the War Department. He will have active charge of all the artillery forces of the American army in Europe. New Commander of Cuba's Fighting Army

The nations of Europe have not faced any more serious military troubles comparatively than little Cuba, which is now reorganizing its army after an internal revolution whose demoralizing effect was keenly felt among the troops. Col. Ybrahim Consuegra, whose wide experience in military affairs marks him as one of the foremost army men of his country, has just been appointed Chief of Staff of the Army, and it will be his task to carry on the work of preparing his soldiers for eventualities in the greatest of all wars. Cuba is fighting Germany, though not actively at present. Col. Consuegra succeeds General Jose Marti, who has been appointed as Minister of War.

A CASE OF PATENT MEDICINES

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene
By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D.,
D. Sc. Commissioner of Health

As a further warning against the incalculable amount of harm people do themselves by resorting to various drugs and patent medicines, which was mentioned last week, I would like to add from my personal experience a story typical of this practice. There are any number of similar ones I have come into contact with, and any physician could tell scores from his own experience.

This is the story of Henry, a colored waiter years ago in a well known restaurant at the corner of Ninth and Chestnut Streets in Philadelphia. I stopped in there one day to get lunch and as soon as I sat down Henry approached me and informed me he was especially glad to see me that day. I asked him why.

"Well, doctor," he said, "Ah'se done got consumption."

"Got a powerful bad cough; can't eat; can't sleep; can't keep no flesh on me nowhow."

"Is that so, Henry? When did you get this cold?"

"Bout two or three weeks ago."

"What are you doing for it?"

"A friend of mine told me to buy a bottle of Dr. Blank's Expectorant. Been takin' it steady ever since. Reckon Ah'd been cured by this time if I hadn't been powerful sick."

Well, Henry didn't need to go any further after he had told me that. He admitted in answer to my questions that the more he had taken of the medicine the less he wanted to eat and the more "miserable" he felt. He said he thought that was on account of his "consumption."

I explained that it was the medicine and not the cold that was producing this effect. I told him the medicine had robbed him of appetite and the cold was taking advantage of the consequent lack of nourishment, and run-down condition and ended by the prediction that if he didn't stop taking that Expectorant and let his stomach recover, so that he could enjoy again a good cup of coffee, a nice lean piece of beef or mutton, and perhaps some toast, he would actually get the disease he thought he had.

"Now, Henry," I said, "I'm sorry that I have to leave for Europe in the morning. But I want you to stop taking that medicine at once and go and get a good doctor and do exactly what he tells you. You'll soon be the same old Henry again. I don't believe you have consumption yet. Give Nature half a chance and she'll throw that cold off. The Expectorant has destroyed your digestion but as soon as that recovers you will be all right again."

About six months later I returned to Philadelphia and stopped into the restaurant to inquire after Henry. I found him fat, healthy, and his customary good-natured self. He greeted me smilingly.

"You was right, doctor," he said. "That medicine surely was killing me. Soon's Ah stopped it Ah done got hungry, then Ah ate good victuals and got cured."

"Who was your doctor?"

"Well, Ah'll tell you how dat was. Ah jus' began to git well so fas' Ah didn't feel like Ah needed no doctor."

Perhaps that accidental meeting with Henry saved his life. Quack medicines kill a great many people. I don't think Henry ever took any more. I urged him to make good use of his lesson and to impress it upon anyone else he might hear of who was about to make his mistake.

Medicine is a great power. In the proper hands it is a power for great good. In the wrong hands it is a power for great evil. Medicine is in the wrong hands when some unrecognized disease is treated on the basis of the sick person trying something he has seen advertised, or what some friend recommends, or what some druggist thinks he ought to have.

When you are taken ill, you cannot tell how ill you are or what is the matter with you. Therefore it is foolish to think you can know how to cure yourself for the illness may be of a serious nature. Don't take drugs that are recommended by anyone but a doctor and don't take patent medicines. Go to a physician. He is the man best qualified to administer medicine.

LIQUOR AGENT FINED BY COUNTY COURTS

G. Zecchinati, of New York city, a young man representing L. Bergold & Co., of the same city, wholesale liquor dealers, has learned that the manner in which he was doing business in this county is a violation of the law. He was taking orders for liquor at Marianna and collecting money for liquors sold some time last June to foreign residents there. Upon the plea of guilty the young man was required to pay $200 and costs. He was paroled on condition that he pay these amounts. Otherwise he will have to pay a fine of $500 and costs and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months. The young man was arrested on Saturday last. He very frankly admitted his business, but likely will be more careful in Washington county hereafter.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER HAS RESIGNED

A DEPENDABLE MEDICINE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable root and herb medicine. It has made a place for itself among the great mass of people, because thousands of sick women have tried it and proved that it will accomplish all that is claimed for it. Nothing unfavorable can honestly be said about it. It does not contain injurious drugs. It is a root and herb remedy founded upon a physician's prescription and is manufactured for a specific purpose. That it accomplishes this purpose is proved by thousands and thousands of convincing testimonial.

LAWN FETE SATURDAY AT ST. JEROME'S CHURCH

A lawn fete will be held on the lawn of St. Jerome's church Saturday evening by the ladies of the congregation. In case of rain, the affair will be held in the Lyceum.

A Philippi's Medicine Tree.

Between the provincial building and the Phillips schoolhouse, part of which is used as a girls' dormitory, stands the sacred tree of the Ifugos, with a span of its branches of 300 feet. Nor is it a tree at all in the true sense, for it is a gigantic example of the baobab, which begins as a parasite vine, kills the tree on which it rises and then hides it in its trunk. The Ifugos thinks that when that huge tree dies they, too, will perish, but there is an industry, a stolidity and a stamina in that obscure tree that should remove from their hearts all fear of extinction. - Christian Herald.

Unter den Linden.

Unter den Linden is the famous street in Berlin which extends from the Brandenburg gate eastward about three-fifths of a mile. Bordered it are the princely and imperial palaces, the university, the academy, the statue of Frederick the Great, etc. It means "under the lindens."

A Solemn Duty.

"Why did Bangs change his iron gray hair to black?"
"Because his fiancee thought the gray in his hair made him look too old for her, and he thought it was his duty to obey his sweetheart's dying request." - Exchange.

Where There Was No Change.

"Don't you think I'm thinner than when you saw me last?"
"Well, you may be thinner, but to me you're just as thick as ever." - Chicago Tribune.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Causes of Disease.
Many diseases are largely due to defective elimination or chronic accumulation of toxins in our body, due to one or more of the following causes:
Overeating, especially of meat and highly seasoned foods after middle life. As some one has aptly expressed it, we too often dig our graves with our teeth.
Insufficient exercise or too much or too strenuous exercise.
The use of alcoholics and the excessive use of tobacco. In fact, intemperance of any kind.
Probably the greatest determining factor is "the strenuous life."
The mad rush for the almighty dollar and undue worry and anxiety interfere more or less with all the normal functions of the body. Worry is ten times more disastrous than work. - Health Bulletin.

A. O. H. WILL HOLD FIELD DAY TOMORROW

Tomorrow will be a big day at Eldora park, when the Washington county A. O. H. and the Ladies Auxiliary to the A. O. H. will hold a field day.

It will be a benefit, and the general public is invited to be present and take part in the festivities. The affair will be held all day, there will be sports of all kinds, and awards will be given men, women and children participating in the events.

At two o'clock a marathon race will be run from Second street, Monongahela, to the park. William Murray of Monongahela, is in charge of this event, and any one desiring to enter can do so by leaving their name with him at Gregg's hardware store in that city. There will be dancing all day and in the evening there will be euchre for those wishing to enjoy this game. The affair is expected to be one of the largest held in the park this summer.

GUN TOTER REQUIRED TO PUT UP DEPOSIT

Andy Lous of West Columbia, was picked up by the Charleroi police on Monday charged with carrying concealed weapons. Andy was carrying a "jag" as well as a gun, and he was requested to deposit his shooting iron, as well as $15 with the police authorities to appear for a hearing this morning. However, it is not likely that Andy will return to such an inhospitable place as Charleroi, where a man cannot indulge in a little celebration without being pinched.

GRAND JURY HAS BUT FEW CASES BEFORE IT

The grand jury for the August term of criminal court convened at Washington, on Monday. Twenty of the 24 jurors summoned, answered. Judge McIlvaine gave the usual instructions to the jurors as to their duties. There was not a large number of cases for presentation, and the work of the jury will be light. Criminal court will convene next Monday.

TRACKS BLOCKED BY BIG STEEL CASTINGS

A big steel disc, consigned to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, and which had been jolted from a flat car on which it had been shipped, blocked the north bound tracks in the local yards below Eighth street for a short time this morning. The car was being shifted at the time, when the big disc forced the timber which was holding it, he casing sliding over one of the rails on the main track. The wrecking crew was called and cleared the track in about thirty minutes. The 7:08 train, north bound, was compelled to use the middle siding in order to pass the obstruction. It was detained about 15 minutes.

A HINT AS TO WHEN STATE TROOPS WILL MOVE

An intimation as when the Pennsylvania troops will leave for the south comes from Sunbury, the home of Gen. Clement, commander of the State National Guard. This was taken to indicate that the troops will move to Augusta very soon after that date.
